Welcome to the 86th Annual Meeting of the Medical Library Association!

Minneapolis and St. Paul highlight this year's theme of Partnerships. Even in this age of competition, the Twin Cities complement each other. They combine the neighborly charm of the old and the energetic technology of the new. Together these cities offer a unique mix of comfort and convenience in a community known for scholarly and scientific innovation.

The cry of the loon is said to have a magical hold on those who hear it the first time. Perhaps it is true for MLA. We were here ten years ago. Now we return, joining friends and colleagues from across the country and around the world.

This meeting has come to be only through the efforts of many individuals and groups. My thanks go to the members of the 1986 National Program Committee and the Local Assistance Subcommittees, as well as Sections, Exhibitors, Donors, Staff . . . and the many MLA members who share their knowledge and skill throughout the meeting.

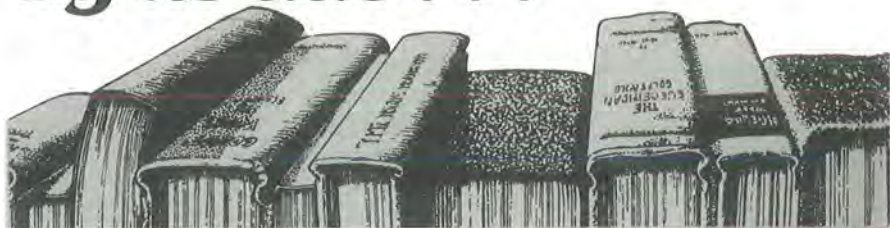

A wide range of structured educational opportunities are linked to meet the needs and interests of both the first-time attendee and the MLA "veteran." Nationally known speakers, a colloquium for hospital librarians, poster sessions, seminars and courses, topical roundtables, contributed papers, and local library tours: all are combined in a diverse and challenging program.

Here in this city of unsurpassed hospitality, we will refresh our memories, strengthen the partnerships and networks of expertise which enrich our profession, and gain new insights on the opportunities for innovation which surround us.

Welcome to MLA '86 — Partnerships!

1986 National Program Committee

You can't judge a book by its title . . .

. . . that's why you need the NEW Index to Scientific Book Contents™!

Searching multi-authored scientific books can be difficult and time-consuming . . . because their titles don't generally reflect individual chapter contents. Beginning in 1986 the Index to Scientific Book Contents will give you chapter-level access, simplifying the search process and saving you valuable time! ISBC™ is the only multi-disciplinary index to science books that gives your patrons the coverage of chapter contents they need.

With ISBC, you can retrieve information through a variety of access points—author name, editor name, chapter subject, book subject, and author affiliation. So it's easy to pinpoint exactly those book chapters relevant to a specific research area.

ISBC indexes nearly 36,300 chapters from over 2,200 newly published, significant scientific books. And ISBC provides multi-disciplinary coverage of books in all scientific subject areas. There's no need to search individual, discipline-oriented indexes for the information you need.

You'll find ISBC important for:

- current awareness—ISBC's quarterly issues offer timely coverage

- bibliographic verification—ISBC's complete bibliographic information on books and chapters enables you to verify citations
- retrospective searching—ISBC is cumulated annually
- acquisitions—ISBC's currency will help you identify and select important new multi-authored books

No other single index helps you locate multi-authored scientific books and book chapters as quickly and easily as the Index to Scientific Book Contents.

The new Index to Scientific Book Contents is from the publishers of Current Contents® and the Science Citation Index®. Beginning in 1986, ISBC is published in three quarterly issues and an annual cumulation. A 1985 annual is also available.

For more information—and a free sample issue—call toll-free (800) 523-1850, extension 1405.

Light years ahead.

A dramatic advance in serials check-in has arrived. MicroLinX is here.

Until now, you've only dreamed of such speed and accuracy. A bar code scanner attached to your personal computer enables MicroLinX to read SISAC and UPC codes, and automatically check in the specific issue you've received. With a growing number of publishers committed to printing these codes, libraries of all sizes can save time with this reliable feature.

MicroLinX also offers easy downloading, predictive check-in and electronic claims transmission through Faxon's global network of libraries and publishers. Additional software modules will soon be available, making this a comprehensive serials management system.

Let MicroLinX check in your journals with the speed of light. Call 800 225-6055 toll free, or 617 329-3350 collect.

As every medical librarian knows, the medical sciences, the social sciences, and the behavioral sciences are closely related. That's why every medical library needs the Social Sciences Citation Index.

1,445 journals!

Many medical libraries rely on the SSCI for this valuable coverage: the University of Arizona Health Sciences Center, the Houston Academy of Medicine, Letterman Army Medical Center, Massachusetts General Hospital, and the University of North Carolina School of Medicine are just a few of them. And we invite you to join them . . .

The SSCI® can add valuable coverage to your reference collection in the many areas concerned with the human aspect of medicine . . . topics like drugs and addiction, gerontology, social issues, rehabilitation, psychology, and hygiene and public health. And the Social Sciences Citation Index can give your patrons access to every item from more than

OCLC UPDATE

OCLC EASI Reference and OCLC Gateway Service

Make the Most of OCLC and BRS

In a medical library you're concerned with efficient, cost-effective online information retrieval. Now you can make the most of both the OCLC Online System and the BRS Information Technologies system with two exciting new OCLC services: EASI Reference and the Gateway Service.

If you've longed for the day when you'd have subject access to the vast resources of the OCLC Online Union Catalog, the wait is over. OCLC EASI Reference provides extensive, up-to-date coverage of a significant portion of the world's largest bibliographic database. Approximately one million citations representing materials from all eight cataloging formats, including books, serials, sound recordings, and software, are available to BRS subscribers on the EASI Reference database (BRS Database Label: OCLC). You'll also be pleased to know that EASI Reference is as cost effective as it is comprehensive, particularly if your library is an OCLC member.

And now you can make the most of your OCLC dedicated-line terminal with the OCLC Gateway Service. The Gateway Service enables you to access both the OCLC Online System and the BRS system from a single, OCLC dedicated-line terminal, providing one point of access to the entire range of OCLC and BRS online services. Using the Gateway Service and a BRS password, you can move with ease from the OCLC Online System to any one of more than 100 BRS databases, including EASI Reference. What's more, Gateway Service telecommunications charges are probably less than you're now paying.

Neither OCLC EASI Reference or the OCLC Gateway Service requires extensive training, and both services are supported by OCLC, its affiliated networks, and BRS.

Visit the OCLC booth for information about these and many other OCLC services.

American Medical Periodicals 1797-1900

From holdings at the National Library of Medicine and other major institutions, a new and important microfilm publication from Research Publications.

American Medical Periodicals, 1797-1900 offers unique research possibilities — with over 1,200 19th-century medical periodicals documenting the evolution of American medical thought as it was recorded by contemporary literature.

Through these periodicals, researchers will have insights into the important issues and events during the formation of American medicine and medical practices, and their influence on American society, including:

- the introduction of anesthetics in surgery
- improvement in diagnosis and therapeutics
- the rise of the public health field
- allopathic, homeopathic, and naturopathic medicine
- debates between faddish medical practitioners and rising medical professionals

This collection is being released in units of 50 reels each at the standing order unit price of $2,950 per unit—a savings of 15% off the individual unit price. Prices are for U.S. and Canada only. Shipping and handling charges will be added.

Should you have any questions about the locations of the meeting rooms, inquire at the Hospitality/Information Center in the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

Featuring MLA . . .

The MLA booth, located next to the Registration Area, has a new look this year. In addition to information on the Association and its publications, the exhibit displays samples of several new items available for sale to Annual Meeting attendees. They include:

MLA pin: the first official MLA jewelry, this attractive gold and enamel lapel pin can be proudly worn by all MLA members.

MLA Note Pad: these practical 500-sheet pads with the MLA logo are ideal for short messages and notes. You'll want one for the office and home as well.

ALA Posters: brighten up your library, office, or home with your choice of one of these American Library Association posters.

All items on display at the MLA store, including publications, can be purchased at the Registration Area. Pay by check, cash, traveler's check, MasterCard or Visa. Please note that quantities of most items are limited and may be purchased only during the Annual Meeting.

Thursday, May 22	8:00 a.m. - 12:00 noon

The 1986 Exhibit

Suppliers to the biomedical information community are exhibiting their latest goods and services to MLA members. The Exhibit is located in the Exhibit Hall of the Hyatt Regency Hotel. Hours for the Exhibit are:

Monday, May 19	11:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m. 7:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m.
Tuesday, May 20	11:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m.
Wednesday, May 21	11:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m.

Special exhibitor demonstrations take place on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Buy a sandwich in the Exhibit Hall restaurant and use the opportunity to browse through the exhibits. And don't forget to attend the grand opening of the Exhibit on Monday, May 19 at 11:00 a.m. or the Exhibitor's Reception on Monday, May 19 from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.

Explore the Exhibits Contest

Everyone enjoys the opportunity to visit the Exhibits and the chance to see advances in technology, new publications, and other goods and services of interest to the biomedical information community.

This year, though, there is yet another reason to visit the exhibits — the chance to win one of the several prizes being given away to registrants who complete their "Explore the Exhibits" form included in the registration materials.

The prizes include an airline ticket to the 1987 Annual Meeting in Portland, complimentary conference - only registration for the 1987 Annual Meeting, dinner for two at the Bristol Bar and Grill in Minneapolis, books on Minneapolis and Portland, and reduced fees for 1987 Annual Meeting Continuing Education Courses. A full list of all prizes will be posted outside the Exhibit Hall.

Each Explore the Exhibits form identifies 20 exhibitors spread throughout the exhibit area. To participate in the contest, all you need to do is have a company representative sign your form when you visit each of the 20 specially marked exhibits. When you have all the required signatures, complete the bottom of the form with your name and address and drop it into the contest box at the entrance to the exhibit hall.

The first drawing will be held Monday evening, May 19 at the Exhibitors' Reception. Additional drawings will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, with times and locations posted outside the Exhibit Hall. Please note that winners must claim their prizes by 5:00 p.m., Thursday May 22. No prize can be claimed after the Annual Meeting and none will be mailed to the winners. Only MLA conference registrants may participate; representatives of exhibiting companies, daily exhibit pass holders, members of the MLA and hotel staffs, and other firms providing services to the Annual Meeting are not eligible.

Placement Service

The MLA Minneapolis '86 Placement Service may be used by any Annual Meeting attendee to list job openings or to register as a job applicant from "entry" through "upper management" levels. The Placement Service is located in the Nicollet Foyer 4, First Floor.

Notebooks of job descriptions and a bulletin board announcing job openings are maintained in the Placement Service. Notebooks of applicant resumes are available for review by employers registered with the Placement Service.

Conference attendees can obtain the necessary forms to list job openings or applicant resume forms from the Placement Service during its hours of operation. Interviews between job applicants and employer representatives can be arranged through the Placement Service.

The Placement Service is open during the following hours:

Thursday, May 15

Administrative Services (Registration Desk) 4:00 p.m. - 8:00 p.m.

Friday, May 16

Dissection of the Human Brain

Lennart Heimer, MD

Dissection of the Human Brain, a four-hour, eleven-part videotape series, is a strong visual teaching aid that will complement neuroanatomy lectures and laboratory classes. The method of dissection shown in the program is similar to the procedures used in many medical schools throughout the world. Brain specimens and diagrams are used to familiarize the student with functionally relevant and clinically important anatomical features. The films serve not only as an excellent guide for actual dissection in the laboratory, but also relate the gross anatomy of the brain to clinical neurology.

Coalition Building: A National Perspective for the Scientific and Biomedical Communities

Carl N. Edwards, Director, Four Oaks Institute, Dover, Massachusetts

Record acceleration in the growth of the health sciences knowledgebase, and the emergence of new technologies which will revolutionize the storage and communication of information, combine to promise a decade of unprecedented challenge and opportunity. But meeting this challenge, and managing new opportunities, will require increasing resources, broadening vision, and creative partnerships between institutions and sectors which have never before shared common perspectives, goals, or traditions. This part of Session I takes a practical look at the forces which will shape, and be shaped by, those entrusted with the guardianship of the health sciences knowledgebase in the years ahead. Effective coalitions on the national level can and must confront complex political and economic forces, but this process will require a judicious blend of new skills and technologies with the traditions and values which are the foundation of medical librarianship.

Coalition Building: Institutional Perspective

At Johns Hopkins University, the Welch Medical Library is striving to become more active within its institutional environment. A strategy for building institutional partnerships is explored and several examples of partnerships are highlighted: The Clinical Workstation project is designed to provide access to multiple, separate files. The Curricular Information Database grew out of an evaluation of gaps and overlaps of the School of Medicine's curriculum. Using Inmagic, a specific subject index of topics is being developed. The Mendelian Inheritance in Man Database, through work with Victor McKusik, M.D. and NLM, is an online version of bibliographic and text material on Mendelian genetics.

Robert S. Gresehover, Deputy Director, Welch Medical Library; Stephen N. Kahane, M.D., Department of Medicine, School of Medicine; Jayne M. Crofts, Senior Reference Librarian, Welch Medical Library; and Sandra D. Teitelbaum, Project Coordinator, Welch Medical Library, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Maryland

Managing Micros II

At the Denver meeting a forum began which focused on the impact of public access microcomputers in library environments. In Minneapolis, we will continue the discussion of issues related to the growing presence of microcomputers. The format includes coordinated five minute presentations prepared by section members who will address specific topics; e.g., the relationship between the LRC and the university computer center. There will be time for questions and discussion.

Quality Circles — The Duluth Experience

In 1983 the Duluth Public Library began participation in a city-wide quality circles program involving all service departments in the city government. While the subjective and the objective benefits were clear, unexpected stumbling blocks were discovered. After a short overview of the theory of Quality Circles and the management preconditions necessary for such a program, Ms. Caven will discuss the Library experience.

Munch, Mingle, and Mini-Posters

The mini-poster session will consist of 20 tables with exhibits by librarians involved in consumer and patient health information programs. Photographs, publicity materials, bibliographies, etc., will be on display with numerous handouts available. Librarians from each library will be present to explain their programs and ideas on innovative consumer/patient literature programs. Wine and cheese will be served. Admission will be by free ticket available at the MLA registration booth Sunday and Monday of the convention. The session will be sponsored by UMI Research Collections and by the Media Library of the University of Michigan Medical Center, who will also be displaying their consumer/patient health materials.

Computers and Nursing

The information explosion, coupled with the dynamic changes taking place in health care, has forged a new and exciting partnership between the nursing educator/practitioner, the computer, and the information specialist. Computer technology is a powerful tool with potential for significant impact on nursing education, patient-care, research, administration, and information management. The new technology will provide a challenge to the changing roles of the nurse and the information specialist.

Of Mice and Men: The End User Interface to Medical Information

(Excerpta Medica Lecture)

We may view the responsibilities of clinical research as the transformation of observation into knowledge. The transfer of this knowledge to the end user has been managed by media, teachers, and librarians. The presence of a large and growing number of online knowledge bases, the development of electronic publishing, and the evolution of true user networks are evidence of a real information explosion.

Medical librarians have already expanded their role of enhancing knowledge access from books and journals to include online searching. The quantum leap to electronic publishing will involve some features of author-user interaction, access to dynamic knowledge bases, and user-driven publishing.

No single factor has had more impact on this evolution or offered more potential solutions than the microcomputer. And with those solutions, the role of the librarian at the interface between the end user and the medical information systems will continue to expand.

GREENWAY C AND D

Survival? Evolution? Extinction? Technical Services in the Electronic Library

The impact of the electronic library on traditional library activities, especially those most commonly associated with technical services—acquisition, cataloging, serials control—will be explored. Dr. Gatewood will present the model of an electronic library from the point of view of a health sciences computing expert, non-librarian IAIMS planner and a library user. Mrs. Anderson will speculate on how technical services will change as a result of this concept.

Forging New Partnerships: University/Hospital/Private Industry

New relationships are currently being forged between private industry, hospitals and academic institutions. Further, the ground rules for existing partnerships are in transition. Speakers representing each of the three sectors will explore the challenges implicit in these new configurations and attempt to predict future direction for these partnerships among the three sectors. The potential effect of these changes on health sciences libraries will be summarized in a joint presentation by hospital and an academic librarian.

- BRS Saunders/Colleague

NICOLLET A-2

COLLEAGUE, the electronic medical literature and information service from BRS/Saunders, provides end-user access to a comprehensive collection of full-text journals and books, indexes and abstracts, plus special databases. Simple English-language menus and commands are used to search resources such as Annals of Internal Medicine, the New England Journal of Medicine, Cecil's Textbook of Medicine, MEDLINE and PDQ. COLLEAGUE now offers PROMPT SEARCH—a software package which will enable medical librarians to provide an end-user service and easily manage accounting and communications.

- PaperChase

NICOLLET A-3

PaperChase - the user-friendly computer program for searching the biomedical literature-will be demonstrated. A question and answer period will be provided.

Indigent Health Care - The Emergence of a Two Tiered Health Care System

The issue of how to provide health care to the indigent portion of our population is a vital one impacting all components of the health care system. Do all citizens have an equal right to access health care? Who is responsible for providing this care? Who is responsible for paying for it? How is the current crisis in financing health care impacting this issue? In this session this issue and the many questions it raises will be discussed by a panel of distinguished experts. Discussing the issue from a national perspective will be Dr. Robert L. Kane, the new Dean of the University of Minnesota School of Public Health and a nationally renowned scholar of health policy issues. Over the past five years he has focused on issues relating to long-term care. Presenting the issue from the perspective of the states will be Marianne Miller, who has worked on this issue for her Department for the last several years. Barbara A. Baxter will address the question of information resources for policy related issues.

1/2 GREENWAY BALLROOM (J,I,H,G,F)

New Perspectives on Computer Technology

Moderator: Francesca Allegri, Health Sciences Library,
University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Chapel Hill, North Carolina

The program will develop two themes in computer applications in health sciences libraries. The first presentation will describe a new application of technology: an individualized multimedia approach to instructing end user searchers. Optical disk technology is the crux around which sound, visuals, and microcomputer technology are organized for this particular mode of information management education. The second speaker will reflect upon our thoughts about the computer and make suggestions which may provoke changes in our perspective. Issues which will be addressed include self-education, current awareness, and humor.

The Development of Interactive Learning Systems with Computer-Controlled Optical Discs for Training Medline End-Users

BioScan

The Biotechnology Corporate Directory Service

Compiled by Cetus Corporation Information Service

To keep track of developments in this exciting field, The Oryx Press has joined the Cetus Corporation, a major force in biotechnology, to publish BioScan—the most comprehensive and up-to-date information service covering biotechnology companies.

BioScan provides detailed and current information on more than 800 companies worldwide participating in this fast-paced field. BioScan's detailed company profiles cover everything from names of officers and former officers to agreements, joint ventures, and research and development activities. Four indexes facilitate access.

BioScan is published annually in a sturdy loose-leaf binder. Subscribers also receive five bimonthly supplements each year to keep their directories up-to-date.

The inaugural BioScan directory will be published in October. Charter subscribers who place a standing order can save up to 10% off the regular subscription rates.

Visit booth No. 9 for complete information about BioScan and see a host of other vital publications from The Oryx Press.

RESEARCH ASSISTANTS.

...tireless, accurate, and always on time.

Together, they're called the Sci-Mate® Software System, and they produce everything from initial research to correctly referenced manuscripts.

With the Searcher, a PC, and a modem, search online databases for the information you want. No need to learn special languages and symbols. The Searcher understands and uses plain English.

With the Manager, replace a desk full of index cards. File references from online databases, or enter your own information. The Manager keeps everything—references, lab notes, memos, addresses—up to date and in order.

With the Editor—an expert copy chief—format your references in one bibliographic style. Then reformat them in another—instantly. Pop a reference in your manuscript or bury it in a footnote. The Editor takes the tedium out of responsible scholarship.

Hire the Sci-Mate® assistants. Individually or together, they make research fast, simple, and productive.

Is your book budget being absorbed by black holes?

A stolen book takes two off your shelf.

Book theft creates more than the gaping holes that punctuate your library's shelves and frustrate library users. It creates large voids into which your book budget disappears. Funds intended for purchasing new volumes must be spent replacing stolen ones. And that, in turn, threatens the future growth of your library.

A 3M Library Security System expands your library by discouraging theft.

Book theft doesn't have to remain a problem. Proven reliable in libraries across the country, 3M Library Security Systems have been responsible for reducing book losses by up to 99%. A choice of styles provides aesthetic appeal while their very presence discourages thieves.

Guaranteed protection costs as little as $3 per day.

3M offers a number of financing options designed to fit your budget. You'll find that your library can own a 3M System for as little as $90 a month. And because every one comes with an 80% Loss Reduction Guarantee, your investment will pay for itself many times over.

Your prescription for current awareness...

Whether you're a practicing physician, nurse, or medical librarian, you and your colleagues share one important concern: keeping up with new medical developments reported in the journal literature. That's why hundreds of busy clinicians and librarians throughout the world rely on Current Contents/Clinical Practice for all their current awareness needs...

Each week, CC[®]/CP's easy-to-scan format shows you titles of articles from the contents pages of more than 800 journals published worldwide—journals including The Lancet, the American Journal of Cardiology, and The New England Journal of Medicine... And CC/CP is specially designed for quick scanning. In less than one hour per week, CC/CP subscribers can pinpoint articles of particular interest in their specialties, including radiology, neurology, and nuclear medicine... CC's Title Word Index enables you to quickly locate articles on particular topics. The Author Index & Address Directory makes it easy to get reprints of articles fast. And the Publisher's Address Directory gives you direct access to journal subscription information.

For more information about Current Contents, stop by Booths 31 & 32. And for a free sample issue of CC/Clinical Practice, fill out and mail the coupon below.

I want to see for myself how Current Contents[®]/Clinical Practice can fill my current awareness needs. . . Please send me my free sample issue today!
